CRN launches new range of superyachts

► CRN, A MEMBER OF THE FERRETTI GROUP, HAS RELEASED THE DESIGNS FOR A RANGE OF CUSTOM LEISURE BOATS BETWEEN 43 AND 62 METRES THAT COMBINE THE AESTHETICS OF THE OPEN BOATS WITH THE COMFORT OF DISPLACEMENT YACHTS. The Dislopen series, a range of steel and aluminum yachts, mix the shape and style of a high-performance open boat with the volume and the comfort of a large displacement yacht. CRN intends for the Dislopen line to develop a new range in leisure boats, that offer a unique way to experience sailing and cruising, offering constant direct contact with the sea through its outdoor areas while having even greater onboard comfort and space.

This original concept was developed by CRN in conjunction with Gianni and Paola Zuccon of Studio Zuccon International Project, long-standing partners of the brand and the Ferretti Group. The Dislopen concept came together in three superyacht projects: a 46-metre Sport model, a second 52-metre model and a 62 metre. The 46 and the 52 has also been developed in two versions in which the stern varies aesthetically, reducing the overall length by two metres in each model, giving it a neater and more minimal look. The Dislopen range has a sporty look, similar to that of small and medium yachts, but is also capable of transoceanic passages, all while maintaining the comfort of a displacement megayacht.

The interior and the exterior layouts have been redesigned to obtain simple and functional solutions that exploit each area on board in an original manner. On the main deck there is a large completely open cockpit with a sunbathing area - with a large swimming pool in the three exclusive designs - a luxurious large lounge and a covered dining area, which creates a harmonious "Al fresco" dining area. On the bow of the main deck lies another open-air lounge area. Indoors, there is a jig-hall, a lobby, a dining area towards the prow and a large cinema hall, which can be used as a fitness room.

The yachts are to be classified by Lloyd's Register of Shipping and are MCA compliant. CRN is confident that the innovation of the project and its flexibility will be a huge success with their customers.
